- House Bill 2496 is Pennsylvania legislation that would let municipalities impose a temporary 180-day pause on data center applications so they can adopt, amend, or repeal local land-use rules related to data centers. It is framed as a local control measure, not a statewide ban, and the House passed it overwhelmingly on final passage.
- Currently passed the house. Needs advancement from committee to senate floor -> Gov Signs

- SB 1345 is a Pennsylvania bill tied to the same data-center policy fight as HB 2496, but it is much more aggressive: it would give municipalities the option of an 18-month moratorium on both unapproved and new data center applications, rather than a short 180-day pause.
- Currently in senate committee- needs to be brought to a vote in Senate, then brought to the house for a vote.

PA Legislature goes on a summer recess starting July 1 through to September.
